Great Falls Help
Church Handout Pack

Great Falls, Montana · You are not forgotten.

Five printable handouts for pastors, staff, and volunteers. Use them when someone comes to your church needing food, a place to sleep, or a listening ear.

What’s inside

1. How to help someone experiencing homelessness — dos and don’ts, dignity, safety, cash versus what to give, and cold-weather risks.
2. What to say — conversation starters, phrases to avoid, how to listen, and how to offer help you can actually give.
3. Local resource contacts — verified November 2026 listings, including crisis lines, 211, shelters, meals, the food-voucher path, and Native American resources.
4. How to connect people to gfhelp.org — a flyer and pocket cards with a QR code, the three-question walk-through, and 211 as the phone fallback.
5. How a church can partner — ideas only, not a signup: meals, rides, coat or sock drives, and pointing people to existing agencies.

Hours change, so please call ahead. Where a listing says “call to confirm,” please do. These handouts do not replace 911, 988, or 211.

How to help someone experiencing homelessness

A plain guide for churches in Great Falls, Montana.

Treat the person as a neighbor, not a project. You do not have to fix everything. A kind word, a meal, and a clear next step can be enough.

Dignity first

- Ask their name, and use it.
- Talk with them, not about them. Don’t share their story without permission, and don’t take photos or post about them.
- Don’t assume you know what they need. Ask.
- Don’t pressure anyone to pray, attend church, or share their story in exchange for help.

Do

- Start with a simple hello and your name.
- Listen more than you talk.
- Offer a specific help you can actually give right now: a meal, a warm layer, a bus pass, or a ride to a shelter — if you can do it safely.
- If they want more help, walk through gfhelp.org together, or call 211 (or 406-268-1337) with them.
- In cold weather, treat this as urgent. See the box below.
- If someone is in danger or talking about suicide, call 911 or 988. Veterans can dial 988, then press 1.

Don’t

- Don’t make promises you can’t keep — a bed, a job, rent money, or “we’ll take care of everything.”
- Don’t argue about why they are in this situation.
- Don’t try to handle a medical or mental-health emergency yourself. Call 911 or 988.
- Don’t give a stranger a ride if you feel unsafe. Go in pairs when you can, or call a shelter or 211 with them instead.

Cash, and what to give instead

Cash can help, but it can also put someone at risk or be used in ways you didn’t intend. If your church has a policy, follow it. Often more useful: a hot meal, water, socks, gloves, a hat, a blanket, a bus pass, or going with them to a meal or a shelter.

For groceries, do not send people to the Community Food Bank door and expect a box. They need a voucher from Opportunities, Inc. first. See the contacts handout. For clothing and household goods, Emilie Center needs a voucher from a partner such as a church, Opportunities, Inc., Salvation Army, or the Rescue Mission.

Safety

- Meet in a public place when you can, and tell someone where you are going.
- Go with another person from church when you can.
- Keep your own limits. You are not a shelter, a clinic, or the police. If you feel unsafe, leave and call 911.

Cold weather in Great Falls

When it feels like 32 degrees or colder, the Rescue Mission is open all night, 10 PM to 7 AM. Call 406-761-0095. This is true no matter the person’s situation.

After 10 PM, call the Men’s Shelter at 406-761-0095.

Men’s Shelter: 326 2nd Ave S, 406-761-0095. Women’s Shelter: 317 2nd Ave S, 406-452-1483. Families / Cameron Family Center: 408 2nd Ave S, 406-761-2145.

Free lunch is at 12:15 PM and dinner at 6:15 PM every day at the Rescue Mission. Call to confirm times.

Hypothermia and frostbite can happen quickly. If someone is outside in the cold and seems confused, sleepy, or is shivering hard, call 911.

If you are not sure what to do

Go to gfhelp.org and answer three short questions together. Or call 211. Hours change, so please call ahead.

What to say

Conversation starters, listening, and offering help you can actually give.

Conversation starters

- “Hi, my name is ____. How are you doing today?”
- “Would you like something to eat or a warm drink?”
- “Is there something you need right now — a meal, a place to sleep, a ride?”
- “I don’t have all the answers, but I can help you find the next place to call.”
- “Would you like to look at gfhelp.org together, or call 211 with me?”
- “You are not forgotten.”

How to listen

- Give them time. Don’t jump in with advice.
- Repeat back what you heard: “It sounds like you need a place tonight.”
- Don’t interrogate. They don’t owe you their story.
- Sit or stand at the same level when you can.
- If they don’t want to talk, that’s okay. You can still offer a meal or a number.

Phrases to avoid

- “Why don’t you just get a job?” or “Have you tried harder?”
- “You don’t look homeless.”
- “I’ll take care of everything,” or “I promise you’ll have a bed tonight,” unless you have already confirmed it.
- “This is God’s way of teaching you a lesson.”
- “You can stay with me” — only if you truly mean it, have thought it through, and have a plan. A casual offer can be unsafe for both of you.
- “At least you have…”
- Questions that shame, such as “Are you using?” or “Where is your family?”

Offer help you can actually give

- Be specific: “I can give you a ride to the Men’s Shelter right now,” not “Let me know if you need anything.”
- If you don’t know, say so: “I don’t know if they have a bed. We can call together.”
- Don’t promise rent, a job, or ongoing housing unless your church already has a real way to do that.
- When you leave, leave them with a clear next step: a phone number, the gfhelp.org card, or a time you will follow up — and then do it.

If they say no

Thank them. Leave the door open: “If you change your mind, 211 and gfhelp.org are there.” Don’t argue, and don’t withhold a meal because they declined a prayer or a church service.

If this is a crisis

If they talk about suicide or wanting to die, stay with them if it is safe, and call 988 or 911. Veterans can dial 988, then press 1. Voices of Hope is 406-453-4357, free and private. Or text MT to 741741.

How a church can partner

Ideas only — not a signup, and not a promise from this site.

The most useful thing a church can often do is point people to help that already exists, and walk with them while they take the next step. You do not need a new program to be useful.

Point people to existing help

- Use gfhelp.org together, or call 211 (or 406-268-1337).
- For housing intake in Great Falls, call Opportunities, Inc. at 406-761-0310 — the Coordinated Entry line.
- For a bed or a meal tonight, start with the Rescue Mission. See the contacts handout.
- Don’t try to become a shadow shelter or a food bank unless you are truly set up for it and already working with the agencies that do this work.

Meals

The Rescue Mission already serves lunch at 12:15 PM and dinner at 6:15 PM every day. Call to confirm times. Set Free Montana serves a Saturday dinner at 5:30 PM. If your church hosts a meal, pick a time that fills a gap, say the time clearly, and don’t require worship in exchange for food.

Rides

A ride to a shelter, to Opportunities, Inc., or to a clinic can matter more than a new program. A few local churches say to call about a ride — call first, and don’t assume a ride is waiting. Go in pairs. Don’t offer a ride if you feel unsafe.

Coat, sock, glove, and blanket drives

These are useful in a Montana winter. Call a place that already serves people — for example the Rescue Mission or the Angel Room — and ask what they can actually use and how to drop it off. Don’t invent a drop-off that isn’t real.

Vouchers for clothing and household goods

Emilie Center offers free clothing, furniture, baby items, and household goods, and it accepts vouchers from partners such as a church, Opportunities, Inc., Salvation Army, or the Rescue Mission. If your church wants to be a voucher partner, call Emilie Center at 406-771-6695 and ask how. Don’t assume you already are one.

Volunteer where the work already happens

Call the agency and ask what they actually need. Don’t show up unannounced with a large group, and don’t start a parallel list of phone numbers that can go out of date. Keep a simple church plan: who to call, where these handouts live, and how to use gfhelp.org together.

There is no fee and no sign-up through gfhelp.org. These are ideas you can take or leave.
